Meaning and Measurement of Contemporary Slavery

Global Estimates of Modern Slavery

Stock: 40.3 million

Flow: 89 million over five years

40.3 million slaves worldwide

Estimated Prevalence of Modern Slavery

Low

High

meaning no globally agreed legal or operational definition forced marriage? child soldiers? prison labour?

meaning but we know it when we see it

measurement expanding the toolbox

♠ > Technology

Satellites reveal 'child slave camps' in Unesco-protected park in Bangladesh

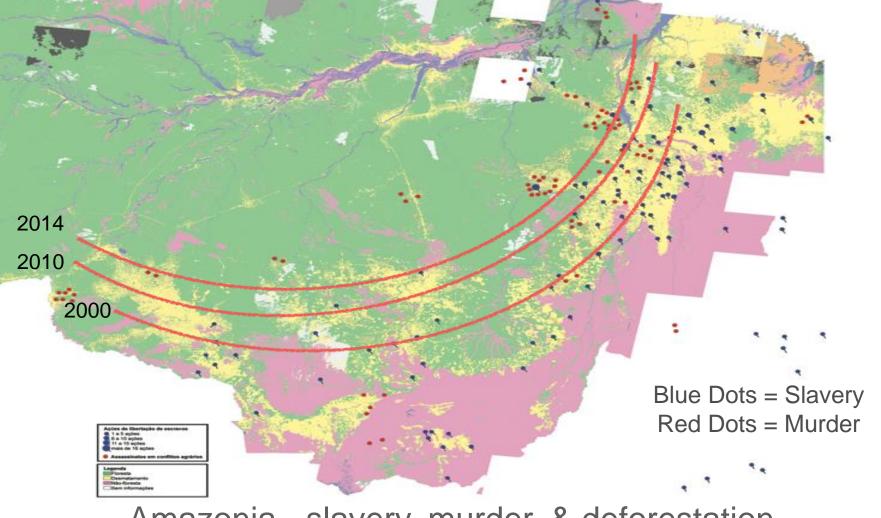

Workers on a shrimp farm in the Sundarbans national park in Bangladesh CREDIT: NASER KHAN

layering information

satellites + on-the-ground data + time series + counting slaves & murders

Amazonia - slavery, murder, & deforestation

linking modern slavery to climate change

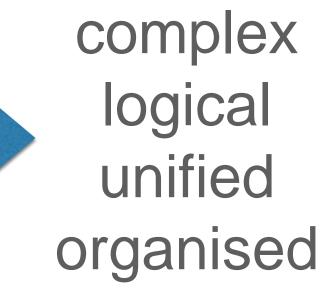

if slavery were a country/US state:population of Algeria/CaliforniaGDP of Bulgaria/Kansas

Carbon emission by country

- 1. China 7.03 billion tons
- 2. USA 5.46 billion tons
- 3. [Slavery] 2.54 billion tons

(larger than any EU member state) simplistic emotive disparate disorganised

the Rights Lab

multi-million £ investment more than 120 researchers 15 interconnected projects

... all aimed at ending slavery

Interconnected projects for teambased research and impact

'moon shot' transdisciplinarity

at the Rights Lab, and the GLAA, and the Antislavery Commissioner's Office, and the NCA and the Freedom Fund, and in groups all over the country, we are dedicated to making the intractable problem of slavery tractable #### if we work together we will:

- break the code of slavery's meaning and prevalence
- build sustainable pathways to liberation & reintegration
- and work to deliver a future in which slavery no longer suppresses human potential and suppresses economic and social development

the Prime Minister:

'Britain will once again lead the way in defeating modern slavery and preserving the freedoms and values that have defined our country'

Today Britain is leading the world in anti-slavery work - but there is still a long way to go.

Fannie Lou Hamer:

'We're never going to get there, unless we all go together.'