

Parliamentary Question – Number who have had data shared by GLAA for immigration enforcement purposes

Date: 05 December 2017

Ref: 117526

Asked by: Sir Edward Davey
(Kingston and Surbiton)

Question:

To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department, how many people have had their data shared by the Gangmasters and Labour Abuse Authority with her Department for immigration enforcement purposes since that authority was established.

Response:

Since the Gangmasters and Labour Abuse Authority (formerly the Gangmasters Licensing Authority) became operational in 2006, it has passed 653 intelligence reports to the Home Office relating to persons, businesses or general information where there may be an immigration interest.

This information is only shared in relation to those suspected of committing a labour market offence and does not include details of victims.
